

ADB ups PH growth outlook this year

THE ASIAN Development Bank (ADB) has raised its growth outlook for the Philippines from 4.5 to 5.5 percent this year while it scaled down its forecasts for other developing economies in the region.

"The Philippine economy continues to show strength despite global and regional economic slowdown," ADB said in its "Asian Development Outlook" released yesterday.

The bank cited the rise in investments by local firms, robust household consumption and increase in government spending as factors behind the latest forecast.

UNA's '3 kings' under pressure

By Gil C. Cabacungan

THE "THREE Kings" of the United Nationalist Alliance (UNA) are under pressure to address amendments over the inclusion of senatorial group candidates despite their refusal to join the coalition's events.

"Some candidates from UNA have reacted saying it is unfair for those who stayed and remained loyal to UNA. This state is not our meeting, that issue will be decided on," said Sen Juan Jose Joseph Victor Soriano in a text message.

What to do with Senators Francis Erasmio and Lorna Legarda will be the daughter of the late action hero Fernando Poe Jr. Jose Limasacra, is the first major test for the coalition's leaders—Vice President Jejomar Binay, Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile, and former President Joseph Estrada.

Their decision on these three past candidates is expected to set the tone of the UNA campaign.

P-Noy moves to allay cyber fears

By TJ Borgeño and Philip C. Tabaza

INCUBED with escalating street and online protests as well as hacking of websites, President Aquino on Wednesday assured the public that no civil liberties would be suppressed under the cybercrime law even as he sought a dialogue with all stakeholders.

Presidential spokesperson Edwin Lucena said the civil liberties guaranteed by the Constitution and enjoyed online by millions of netizens would not be disturbed by the Cybercrime Prevention Act that took effect on Wednesday.

Proof of this is that no government agency has moved to stop access to the Internet or suppressed liberties enjoyed online, the presidential spokesperson said.

"People are spreading fear of this law but they should also remember the power of the Constitution, the rights that it guarantees. That should be our safe harbor, that should be our

More lawmakers ready to amend act

By Carly C. Yarnson, Lela R. Solerter and Norman Bordador

AMID the outrage over the Cybercrime Prevention Act, outgoing Sen. Edgardo Angara, principal sponsor of the controversial law in the Senate, said he would file amendments to address concerns on libel and the authority given to the justice department to shut down certain websites.

Still, Angara, who is reported to be running for governor of Aurora province and whose son is an administrative sector candidate, said the country was "teaching better off" with a cybercrime law than "operating in a large anarchy without rules."

To express their outrage over the law, major news outlets, bloggers, rights activists and other critics named their social media profile pages black.

Casino shows up at Comelec wet and in shorts

By Jeaneen R. Uy

LIVING up to his promise of a new brand of politics, Bayan Muna Rep. Teodoro Casiño showed up at the Commission on Elections (Comelec) yesterday dressed by the rain in his short pants and running shoes to register as a candidate in next year's senatorial election.

In that last-day getup—and conditions—Casiño seemed to have drawn more public attention than the two senatorial aspirants from the administration's Liberal Party who also filed their certificates of candidacy (COC) in Comelec's headquarters in Intramuros. Glad to polo shirt and dress

No stopping Padaca from Comelec job—Palace

By TJ Borgeño

THE PALACE is holding its line, but even a graft case, to prevent Grace Padaca from sitting as a commissioner in the Commission on Elections (Comelec).

Malacanan said yesterday. The former Iloilo governor can perform the job "temporarily and without loss of face" even if she's fighting a graft case in the Sandiganbayan anti-graft court, said presidential spokesperson Robert Lucena. Lucena said he was positive that Padaca would not be assigned as Comelec commissioner to a region where she would be handling cases involving her province.

P-Noy sees upgrade of PH civil aviation industry

By T. S. Garcia

PREMIER Aquino is confident that with the assistance of Transport Secretary Joseph Alvarado, the country's aviation industry will be able to fully comply with international safety standards and expand outside operations outside the United States.

In a speech at the opening of an aviation manufacturing facility in Batangas, he said that the Philippines would be able to attract investment from the United States and Europe.

In 2009, the FAA designated the Philippines as Category 2 aviation safety standards country, which means that the Philippines is now able to receive aircraft from the United States.

to be known and recognized. We will not neglect our efforts, and we will continue to work to ensure the safety of our industry, which is a top priority for us," he said.

Getting competitive

The President acknowledged the significant role of the Philippines in the aviation industry in the United States and Europe.

"This is a great opportunity for us to be able to become increasingly competitive. We are now the World Economic Forum has ranked us as one of the top 10 places in the world."

instead moving up the value chain," he said. The facility will build planes, parts and accessories for Airbus and Boeing planes.

Pilot's last

Alvarado is taking over the duties of the late President Aquino, who has passed on the Department of Transportation and Civil Aviation following the death of Jose Alvarado in an Aug. 11 plane crash.

The President entrusted the program in the country's aviation industry to his brother, Joseph, who has been a pilot for 10 years and a local playing field.

"We have a strong vision in the future of aviation, which is to be able to change the way of thinking of the people and have a more professional and quality work and a local playing field."

MX3 : NEVER LOSE HOPE

"I have SLE or Systemic Lupus Erythematosus, a systemic autoimmune disorder that can affect any part of my body. With my immune system attacking the body's cells and tissue, resulting in inflammation and tissue damage, I acquired this during my second month of pregnancy with my second child.

In 2003, I experienced fatigue, butterfly rashes, red patches on my skin when exposed to sunlight, then turned violet when going back indoors. After I sought medical attention, my specialist has instructed me to always have a series of blood tests to check my health. My daily maintenance of medicines didn't meet my expectations. My previous medical results have raised medical concerns on my part, and I was experiencing UII while on steroids.

Struggling with my condition, I didn't lose hope and continued my PALS therapy (anti-chemo) for my SLE. I listened to a radio ad about MX3 and thought of trying it for myself. Religiously, for one month, I took 1 capsule 3x a day with a steady cup of tea or milk. Miraculously soon after, I learned based from my medical checkups, my blood tests gave me hope. No more residues/contamination or anything abnormal were found on my blood tests.

Today, I am always positive that through MX3, the effects on my condition and overall health have given me new hope in life. For me, I'm more than just glad to share the good news!"

Lawyers' group appeals for calm amid netizens' protest

A LAWYERS' group yesterday appealed for calm amid the growing public opposition to Republic Dec. No. 10773 as the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) and human rights lawyer Benigno Aquino Jr. is a state.

The former senator called on the Supreme Court to be careful not to get pulled in pressure to issue on the issue of petition, questioning the constitutionality of the law.

"In this case, we cannot ignore 12 unrelated cases and sections by cancelling and redoing them in act as a representative and a representative, allowing the elected, including... a dangerous precedent, a case which the Supreme Court should be careful not to set as a precedent, questioning the constitutionality of the law.

UNA reported to be choosing between Binay daughter, Hagedorn

By Christine E. Nolasco

THE UNITED NATIONS (UNA) is choosing between the daughter of Vice President Joseph Binay and former Philippine Mayor Edmundo Hagedorn to complete its national election, following the withdrawal of businessman Roy de Vries from the race.

President Benigno Aquino III yesterday said he would not interfere in UNA business but he would support the process in a neutral role with both Binay and Hagedorn.

The daughter of Binay, who is currently in the United States, is the daughter of the president's daughter.

UPDATE AND CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT PROJECT SURVEY

Toward this end, the DOTC will fund a Household Interview Survey which aims to capture current traffic conditions based on passenger trip patterns and to get public opinion on transportation development. Survey results are expected to support the ongoing METROS Update and Capacity Enhancement Project (METRUP) by providing public input on factors governing the Metro Area, as well as contributing among relevant agencies to be incorporated in the DOTC.

Gov't set to roll out $5.5-B infra projects

By Jerry E. Diopulano

THE DEPARTMENT OF Public Works and Highways (DPWH) has lined up more than a dozen major infrastructure projects to be rolled out next year with a budget requirement of over $5.3 billion, according to a DPWH report furnished to the House.

In last fall of the public-private partnership, or PPP, projects are "ready to roll out in 2013 and 2014," the report said.

The projects are the 7.10-kilometer Iloilo Airport International Airport Expressway, 13.4-km North Luzon Expressway (NLEX) Extension, 10.5-km Cebu Expressway, 10.5-km Manila-Silang Expressway and Phase 2 of the Southern Tagalog Expressway.

Other PPP projects include the C-6 Expressway and Global Link, C-6 Extension, Genes Road and Marikina Highway improvement, rehabilitation of Quezon Highway connecting Quezon, Camarines Norte and Cagayan, 2nd, Calabanga Bay Bridge Toll Expressway, R-2 Expressway and the NLEX toll Expressway in Bulacan and Marikina.

Under the PPP Bridges Project, the department "will implement a pilot test in Cebu, where 129 bridges will be replaced by new ones," the report said. "By tapping private sector resources and skills in the design and construction of various types of bridges, the project is expected to improve and provide direct access to and between existing highways, roads, interchanges and cities, thereby facilitating the transport of goods and services."

Later this year, the DPWH also plans to start constructing an additional 7,600 kilometers of roads to fill up the 46,000-kilometer backlog of the Department of Education (DepEd).

Under the $233-million project, the contractor will be awarded the financing, design and construction of a package of classrooms. After completion, the contractor will turn them over to the DepEd, which shall pay the contractor on the project timeline their total investment plus a reasonable rate of return at an agreed schedule.

The DPWH said the Tuguegarao, Pangasinan, segment of Phase 1 of another PPP project, the Tuguegarao-La Orosa, 10.5-km Expressway (CENEX), is 94.6 percent complete. It is expected to be completed by May 2013.

The KAN-KAN and Iwahig TIRFs, which cover 5,000 sq. km, also cover two stadiums, eight interchanges, two control centers, 12 bridges and 43 overpasses.

Another PPP project, the construction of the 4-km Baguio West-SECT Link, is scheduled to start later this year. The toll road will pass through the New Bilibid Prison reservation, connecting Baguio-Corral with the North Luzon Expressway through Sumas Heights. The project costs $40.5 million, 75.5 percent of which will be the government's contribution.

Of the total public sector investment requirement of $5.3 billion, at least $1.6 billion is earmarked for the highway sector, and the DPWH.

In 2014, the agency aims to pave all existing unpaved roads out of the 15,472 kilometers of national arterial roads, and by 2015, pave all existing unpaved roads out of the 13,370 kilometers of municipal roads.

By the same year, the DPWH also targets the rehabilitation of 18,970 meters of national bridges, widening of 12,156 meters of existing bridges, rehabilitation of 16,225 meters of new bridges and replacement of 18,725 meters of damaged bridges.

ADB ups PH growth outlook this year

By Jerry E. Diopulano

For 2013, however, ADB expects the economy to expand at a slower pace of 5 percent. This rate is based on expectations that demand from industrialized countries for exports from the Philippines would be weak or slow in prolonged economic challenges.

The favorable growth performance of the country has not meant absence of economic problems, said Norio Imai, ADB vice president for the Philippines.

The key challenge is to make the economy growth result in poverty reduction, he said.

Despite growth, poverty incidence in the Philippines rose from 2002 to 2009. That is a cause for concern," he said. Poverty rose from 24.7 percent in 2002 and 26.5 percent in 2009.

Other Asian countries

ADB said the economy still has potential to grow, but it is not clear if that growth can be sustained. It is not clear if that growth can be sustained.

capacity that will do so have multiple dimensions.

The bank cut most of its 2012 and 2013 growth estimates for developing Asia at mid-brook as a sharp in global demand weighs on the region's growth prospects. It also and India and so on in other export-dependent economies.

The ADB cut its growth forecast for China by nearly 1 percentage point to 7.3 percent from the previous 8.3 percent, warning that the rise to the world's second largest economy would likely be curbed by its slow growth from global demand and the structural outlook for its larger trading partners.

It is believed China would still be able to sustain a hard landing, given that policymakers in Beijing have made considerable room for further stimulus measures.

Euro zone, US weak

"The global trend in demand, especially from Europe, will remain a serious drag on growth in the near term," ADB chief economist Changyong Eber said in a news release.

for inclusive growth."

The news came as a surprise, however, after the Asian Development Bank (ADB) had raised its growth forecast for the region to 8.3 percent, up from 7.3 percent in 2011.

The bank's report also said that the region's growth prospects are "moderately favorable" in the near term, but that the outlook is "uncertain" due to the global economic challenges.

6.7 percent in 2013.

The figures are substantially lower than ADB's estimate of 8.3 percent and 7.3 percent, respectively, and last year's 7.3 percent expansion.

Slowdown

In China, growth with slower momentum and weaker demand at home and abroad, the ADB said, is set to 2013 growth forecast for the country to 8.3 percent from the previous 8.3 percent.

Growth in India is expected to rise to 6.7 percent and 6.7 percent in 2012 and 2013, respectively, from 6.7 percent and 6.7 percent, respectively, and last year's 6.7 percent expansion.

Young historian finds Laguna birth date

By Maricel Gato
San Pedro, Laguna

TO NONHISTORIANS, it may simply be a trifling topic, but the question that was asked to him baffled even Gregorio B. Toledo, who authored many textbooks about Philippine history, its ancient history to the provincial government. When was Laguna founded?

Just this "babe" Alan, 30, wasn't even looking for an answer when he saw the date—July 26, 1571—while researching for a online table book he was commissioned to write about the province.

"That was the earliest date found when after cross-checking with other sources," said Alan, a historian who keeps a unique collection of Philippine history in his home in San Pedro town in Laguna.

In June, Alan was reading "The General History of the Philippines" by Juan de Alarcon, a book written in 1596 by a Jesuit priest, Pablo Hidalgo, one of the earliest to write about the province.

Several months had been made earlier to establish Laguna's founding date. Some parties even explored evidence in Spain, while a former Laguna province official said a treaty.

page 17 is a chart that listed the provinces that were established by Spanish colonial government. It listed the date of the province's founding. "Laguna" entered in the last line around the lake region. It was created as an encomienda to a Spanish conquistador Martin de Gait.

Long search

Alan said his book author, Benedicto, immediately went to see Gov. Jorge Ejercito to present the proof. "When I showed him the book, he appeared excited. He even said he gave me a bonus," Alan recalled.

Several months had been made earlier to establish Laguna's founding date. Some parties even explored evidence in Spain, while a former Laguna province official said a treaty.

Although the NCR has no jurisdiction over Laguna, a provincial board member, Ben Torres, who chairs the committee on education, tourism, history and culture, had already directed a commission to study the province's founding date.

"I just expressed a lot of passion to dig up the date. When I expressed it, nobody was taking it seriously," Alan said. "I just expressed a lot of passion to dig up the date. When I expressed it, nobody was taking it seriously."

'Unapologetic'

A critic of Alan's paper said Laguna was declared an encomienda only on July 26, 1571, but it became a province in 1581 with the first capital. But even so, Alan said, Laguna was already declared a "jurisdiction" in 1571.

"Some people from the NCR (NCR) found it surprising to see someone so young and so confident," Alan said. "I just expressed a lot of passion to dig up the date. When I expressed it, nobody was taking it seriously."

"I just expressed a lot of passion to dig up the date. When I expressed it, nobody was taking it seriously."

A University of the Philippines Los Baños history professor, Danilo Zarda-Diaz, said Alan's claim had been "the absence of any document that says Laguna was founded on July 26, 1571."

Robredo aide struggles to find peace of mind after surviving crash

By Juan Francisco Jr.
Naga City

SURELY that. Jose Robredo is still struggling to find peace of mind after surviving the plane crash that killed then Interior Secretary Jesse Robredo and their two pilots off the coast of Iloilo City on Aug. 18.

During the 4th day of recovery from the crash of the former secretary of the Department of the Interior and Local Government, Robredo, 57, his brother's pilot, said he has to live with the "ghost" that came with being the last survivor and the question why he was in the plane when it crashed.

Robredo, who has since returned to his job at the Philippine National Police, now with his wife Lucinda, 24, and 2-month-old son Rino.

Miracles

He began during the crash kept everything over and over in his mind, he said, and feeling no uncertainty has been survived, he could only say that it must have been a miracle.

He also felt confused after the months reported false accounts of his survival, including a report that he jumped out of the plane and survived on his own.

"There is nothing to explain in those who believe me... I understood why they don't even consider the reports I submitted after the crash and the rumors I brought me," he said.

He said it is a "miracle" for him to survive, no matter how impossible the circumstances, to have failed to rescue the person he was meant to rescue.

"I was even willing and prepared to give up my life for him. When I accepted the job at his side I knew very well my responsibility and the things I should sacrifice without any second thoughts," he said.

He said he was thankful to the families of Robredo and his wife, who also reported and inspired him to move on and defend him from negative speculations.

Binay defends 'dynasty of service,' Erice quits race

By Jeannette I. Andruete and Nina Celis

WITH no serious candidates posing a threat to their bid to run for another term, three incumbent mayors—Herbener Bautista of Quezon City, Jeppia Erwin “Sonjay” Binay Jr. of Makati City and Benito Alonzo of Mandaluyong City—seem poised to win handily in next year’s polls.

One of them, however, is not about to take things for granted. “Jeppia is a dynamo,” Bautista said yesterday when he filed his certificate of candidacy (COC) in the Commission on Elections (Comelec) local office along with hundreds of his constituents who are rallying under the Liberal Party ticket. According to him, he has learned never to underestimate his opponents who are all yesterday’s members just one—67-year-old Senator Renato Alonzo—who ran against then Quezon City Mayor Jeppia “Sonjay” Binay Jr. in 2007.

Bautista was also the first mayoral bid to formulate his campaign to run when he went to the Comelec office on Monday, the first day for the filing of COCs.

According to Bautista, he represents everyone’s rights to seek public office and will not underestimate their ability to get votes.

Asked if he had heard of former Gov. Benito Arroyo Sr.’s plan to seek the mayoralty, Bautista said he hoped the bankrupt legend would not do so because he did not want the city divided by politics. There have been reports that Zoroilo will run for mayor with Rep. Vincent “Baglong” Cristobal as his vice mayor.

Bautista, on the other hand, is meeting with incumbent Vice Mayor Jeppia Binay, Binay’s daughter-in-law, in Makati, a heavy downpour failed to change the festive atmosphere in the local Comelec office where Jeppia Binay Jr. and other Liberal incumbents filed their COCs. Jeppia Binay Jr. said he was the Vice President Jeppia Binay, son of the late President Jeppia Binay, who was a senator and a congressman.

With his younger son, he is running under Makabansa A. de Moya, 35, a candidate seeking seats in the city council. His son, Rep. Benito Alonzo, is also running. Jeppia Binay Jr. said he was the Vice President Jeppia Binay, who was a senator and a congressman.

Waiting game
 Asked if he knew who he would be going up against for the mayor’s seat, Jeppia Binay said, “Let’s wait until Friday. We don’t have any information (about them yet).”

As for Jeppia Binay Jr., he was preparing a political speech in the city to be held. “This is a quantity of victory. If the Makati residents didn’t want us, we wouldn’t have won in the last election.”

Newest bus scheme takes effect in Dec.

THE METROPOLEMAN Development Authority (MMDA) will start implementing its newest program for bus stop thoroughfare in Metro Manila—its new bus scheme.

MMDA Chair Francis Tolentino said yesterday that during a meeting with 70 of the 100 bus operators who ply routes in Metro Manila, the majority of them were in favor of the bus stop scheme.

"They supported the plan... There was no opposition," he said.

Under the bus stop scheme, buses will be classified into groups based on their routes and assigned loading and unloading bays or lanes.

A bus belonging to Group A, for example, can only stop at loading and unloading bays assigned to the group. The same policy applies to buses assigned to Group B.

The third group, on the other hand, will consist of "all-stop" public utility buses or PUs, which can load or unload passengers at all bus stops for the benefit of passengers who are traveling only a short distance.

Tolentino said the new scheme is expected to reduce traffic on Metro Manila's roads and make travel more efficient.

He added that the MMDA has formed a technical working group to iron out the details, including the assignment of bus stops to the different groups.

From the 100 bus operators, Tolentino said, the agency is expected to implement the new program by December.

"It is amenable to this proposal but when we can't predict it if it will be acceptable to our passengers. They will be the ultimate judge of this new program," said Tolentino.

According to him, the bus stop scheme will provide bus operators with more control over their routes and will also allow a better control over the bus stop system.

He said that the bus stop scheme will also allow a better control over the bus stop system.

ADB allots $1.8B for PH development

3-year loan program to boost anti-poverty drive

By Michelle K. Barro

THE ASIAN Development Bank has reiterated its commitment to help the Philippines achieve its development goals, saying it will earmark between $1.7 billion and $1.8 billion for its loan program for the country for the succeeding three years.

During July, country director of ADB for the Philippines, yesterday said a significant portion of the money to be disbursed to the Philippines from 2013 to 2015 will be used to provide funding support for coordinated anti-poverty measures (CAP), education, community development projects, and other initiatives for poverty reduction.

"We are a governmental partner, and we are supporting development initiatives of the country," said the country director.

The Philippines government's CAP program, under which the government provides local subsidies to selected poor households, requires households to be required to send children to public schools. The objective of the program is to improve education among the poor and eventually improve poverty incidence.

The ADB official said the CAP program of the Philippines has become a model for poverty reduction activities of other countries.

He said this program is believed to help address the serious poverty problem in the Philippines.

Although the Philippines is growing at a respectable pace, low and economic growth to be too slow to address poverty reduction. This means benefits of the growing economy are being enjoyed mostly by the middle class and the rich.

Some official data on poverty showed that poor Filipinos accounted for 26.3 percent of the population in 2009, up from 24.9 percent in 2007.

Benguet Corp. retools unit for mining logistics

By Rex T. Olorio

PURNEY Island, Benguet Corp. is infusing its operations with a new unit, which will serve subsidiary, Benguet Management Corp. (BMC), in line with efforts to retool the unit into a mining logistics and services provider.

In a declaration to the Philippine Stock Exchange, the parent firm said it bought back approved to principle the additional capital in response to support the proposed capital increase of BMC and other subsidiaries in the Benguet group.

Benguet Corp. said the capital raise aims to turn BMC into the logistics and services provider for the group's mining subsidiaries.

In a letter informing BMC's investors, the firm said it will be retooled into a mining logistics and services provider for mining projects controlled by the parent company.

The infusion—valued between P200 million and P250 million—will help BMC to expand in Comstock, Cordoba, and Benguet, for mining, processing, and services, including steel, BMC said to make such purchases within 2012, he said.

Previously, Benguet Corp.'s BMC unit had been a general contractor for the parent company, which had been pushing the parent company to increase up to 100 percent in the second quarter, it is located in Zamboanga province. Another growth driver for Benguet Corp. is the second quarter was the Aduana gold project in Benguet province.

BMC's main subsidiary BMC is located in Benguet, which is a mining logistics and services provider. Benguet Corp. is continuing work to update the resource estimate for its BMC unit, which is a new project in Benguet.

The resource update may be available by mid- to end-November 2012, BMC said.

BSP defends dollar accumulation

High international reserves shield PH against external shocks

By Maheela V. Ramo

THE INTERIOR Secretary of Finance yesterday defended central bank's position that the country's rising foreign exchange reserves have not increased and are not a sign of dollar accumulation, but rather a sign of the country's ability to defend against external shocks.

The BSP said the buying of dollars, which adds to the building of the reserves, is needed from time to time to support the country from the destabilizing effects of major foreign portfolio investors and other external developments.

Significant inflows of foreign capital may cause sharp fluctuations in the value of the peso, which may be dangerous to investors and the economy—without the participation in the market the dollar.

"In the case of heavy capital inflows, the BSP has accumulated additional reserves, ensuring that financial stability can be achieved by ensuring and that a high level of reserves can be a good cushion," Interior Secretary Maheela V. Ramo said.

The rise in foreign portfolio investments to nearly 50 percent in the Philippines is attributed to the economic problems of the US dollar and euro currencies.

The BSP also said significant dollar reserves give it flexibility to buy pesos and prevent a sharp depreciation of the local currency in case of capital flight. Reduction of foreign investment is a possibility, especially in times of a volatile global economy.

Colangelo said the significant amount of foreign portfolio investments has not yet been fully reflected in the country's balance of payments, which is a possibility, especially in times of a volatile global economy.

"We have this high level of reserves, we have a high level of international reserves, and we have a high level of international reserves," he said.

The country's foreign exchange reserves are only about $100 billion, a figure that is not enough to cover for almost one year of import requirements and is not more than the country's debt to foreign investors.

Colangelo's comments were made while he was asked to respond to the question of whether the BSP's foreign exchange reserves of the Philippines are already excessive and the accumulation of dollars over the last few years has been mostly for the dollar.

Colangelo said, that even for the dollar, the BSP is not accumulating the dollar, but rather the foreign exchange reserves of the Philippines are the most significant in the region in terms of protection to ensure financial stability of the country.

She said the BSP can afford to go down on dollar accumulation, using the country's dollar reserves to cover foreign exchange needs.

Colangelo said dollar accumulation is a sign that the country's balance of payments is in a state of surplus, which is a good sign for the country's economy.

The BSP also said significant dollar reserves give it flexibility to buy pesos and prevent a sharp depreciation of the local currency in case of capital flight.

Colangelo said the significant amount of foreign portfolio investments has not yet been fully reflected in the country's balance of payments, which is a possibility, especially in times of a volatile global economy.

"We have this high level of reserves, we have a high level of international reserves, and we have a high level of international reserves," he said.

"We have this high level of reserves, we have a high level of international reserves, and we have a high level of international reserves," he said.

Dollar strengthens after gloomy data from China

Grim trade deficit report from Australia aggravates pessimism

TORONTO—The dollar firmed up after the dollar index fell on Wednesday as data from China and Australia deepened gloom about the global economic outlook, further reducing risk appetite already hurt by uncertainty about the timing of the U.S. budget for 2013.

U.S. stock indexes ended 4.2 percent, suggesting a weak start to Wall Street, while financial commodities, except European futures, were quiet.

Forecast for the cash-value dollar pushed the index down, as the dollar slipped to a two-year low. The dollar index fell 0.1 percent to 75.10, while the euro fell 0.2 percent to 1.27. The yen fell 0.1 percent to 98.00.

In Australia, the nation's trade deficit rose to its widest in 2-1/2 years, weighing on the local currency and pushing gold for equities falling prices for iron ore and coal to weak demand from China have caused sharp declines.

China's official purchasing managers' index for the services sector fell to 53.7 in September from 54.7 in August, a sign of the country's manufacturing industry's decline at a slower pace, putting the world's second largest economy on course for a seventh straight quarter of contraction.

"We heard to get inside into the numbers we had, especially in China and the raw materials," said Hong Kong, an oil and metals analyst at Citigroup Global, referring to weak manufacturing data released this week.

Hong Kong's Hang Seng index, which resumed trading after a holiday weekend, climbed 0.2 percent. Markets in China and South Korea were closed for holidays on Wednesday.

Analysts say markets have been choppy since last month after the U.S. Federal Reserve launched an aggressive stimulus package and the European Central Bank announced a program to buy bonds of more than 100 billion euros.

There were also reports of a possible U.S. Treasury stimulus package, which would increase the federal deficit by $100 billion over the next five years.

PHILIPPINE gains on tax administration reform and fiscal management will be part of discussion at the third yearly meeting of the Asia Pacific Tax Forum (APTF) that kicked off yesterday at the Hyatt Regency in Manila.

"We are eager to learn from the Philippine example and we just did an official firm business, the academic and government sector, the private sector to improve tax policies," APTF co-ordinator David Wain said at the start of the three-day event.

Wain also serves as president of the Hongkong and Shanghai Free Trade International Tax and Investment Center which, along with the Public Finance Institute of the Philippines, serves as the APTF secretariat.

Further, Wain said the Philippines' recent credit rating upgrade from Standard & Poor's to a notch above investment grade "is a good sign" that fiscal management here is going in the right direction.

"The APTF Manila meeting will examine how to achieve fiscal and non-fiscal objectives with tax policy," he said. "A country's most important trade policy is its tax policy."

The forum follows 158 similar events, mostly officials, fiscal experts and industry representatives from across the region to discuss the latest developments, studies, issues and challenges in taxation.

The forum of taxation reform is in the middle of implementing a $100-million tax administration reform project that is meant to help raise tax revenue and reduce tax evasion and emigration. The project covers the modernization of the revenue collection system as well as reform within the BIR itself.

This project is part of a $450-million grant from United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) to help reform the tax system.

Along with two other projects, the MCI Package is meant to help reform poverty in the Philippines.

The grant also provides funding for the $20-million high-tech lab in Subic Bay Comprehensive and Integrated Laboratory of fiscal services, which is meant to improve tax revenue and improve services to taxpayers and assist services. This will be done through the establishment of an existing $200-million and regional taxation fund.

A final component is the $200-million secondary national capacity development grant which is expected to reduce unemployment rates and improve services to taxpayers and assist services. This will be done through the establishment of an existing $200-million and regional taxation fund.

Use of rooftop solar panels in PH pushed

By Amy B. Reyes

GERMANY and Philippine solar technology developers are pushing for a massive installation of solar panels on millions of households, commercial establishments and buildings as they could help reduce the country's energy needs over the long term.

"By mid-2012, we would like to have on the solar rooftop because we believe that it is going to be a major initiative by the [solar] industry in providing solutions to our problems in the energy sector," said Tereza-Cruz Capellan, one of the founders of the Philippine Solar Street Alliance (PSSA).

"There are about half a million new residential projects that are going on every year. If only 10 percent of these can be converted to put solar panels on their rooftops, that will be a big help to both the distribution utilities and power generation companies," Capellan said, adding that it would also help reduce the country's dependence on imported fossil fuels.

The potential market for solar industry players was estimated at about 100 million P2-billion yearly. This translated to the 50,000 households representing 10 percent of the half a million households yearly that can install solar panels with a capacity of 2 kilowatts.

In addition, a kilowatt of solar power from clean rooftop panels, could cost as little as $4.50 for the actual components and installation works. This investment can be recovered in about seven years but the solar panels usually last for at least 20 years, said Capellan.

She said investment in solar energy were also made with real estate developers as the Climate Change Commission for the possible inclusion of rooftop solar panels in housing projects under "net-zero."

Thomas Ummenhofer, head of international affairs of Germany's Bundesverband Solarwirtschaft e.V., said that the potential of photovoltaic systems globally continued to be underestimated in some parts of the world. In Germany, however, solar has become a part for about 10 percent of the installed solar capacity of 20 gigawatts.

Chrometta said rooftop solar panels could be a viable solution for the Philippines given its high solar radiation level.

"The Philippines is said to have solar irradiation of 1,000 kilowatts per square meter.

Electricity produced from solar energy, however, remained marginal compared to other renewable energy sources, such as hydro and geothermal, due to the perceived high costs of solar panels and installation.

Carinderias level up

Filipinos are famous the world over for eating as much as five times a day. And chances are, at least one of those daily meals will be enjoyed at a carinderia.

The carinderia is that friendly neighborhood grocery that provides hungry motorists, school workers, professionals and even housewives with daily doses of delicious and affordable home-cooked meals.

There are an estimated three million carinderias all over the country, with a single one half in the National Capital Region and Cebu alone. More than 90 percent of them are considered micro-entrepreneurs, with hardly any direct link to suppliers or like other food establishments.

Despite this, carinderias flourish all over the country and have become an indispensable part of many Filipinos' everyday life. These carinderias appeal to all market segments, from those who want freshly-cooked food to the professionals driving to family cars in the remote business districts.

And yet despite their obvious strengths, carinderias do not receive as much care and attention as most family businesses that actually come in just a small segment of society.

That is until the Carinderia Fiesta came along in 2011, through the auspices of Magnolia Fresh Chicken.

Carinderia Fiesta was the first-ever organized carinderia showcase in the Philippines and provided an innovative and effective forum where carinderias connect, build and product suppliers come together to revitalize business and learn from each other.

It was another expression of Magnolia Fresh Chicken's brand of integrity as the brand recognized that the carinderias play a major role in the country's burgeoning food

Industry

As talk in the press goes, it is every body name out a winner in the first Carinderia Fiesta. Tens of thousands of participants joined the two-day event held in September last year and everybody left the World Trade Center with bags full of new ideas and brands filled to the brim.

Carinderias usually get to showcase their best goods to the hungry crowd and in the end, the time learned that they can raise their standards to provide their customers with better service, while continuing to provide them with that truly Filipino taste and culture that only carinderias can provide.

But more important, the carinderias were recognized as a force to reckon with in the food industry and highlighted as a major development in the supply, production and services. For the first time, they were given the attention they were due.

Such a performance by Carinderia Fiesta truly deserves an award in the form of Carinderia Fiesta II scheduled for October 5 to 8, 2012 at the World Trade Center.

Carinderia Fiesta II will once again gather carinderias owners and food and product suppliers as part of Magnolia Fresh Chicken's continuing efforts to build trust and ensure the carinderias owners to improve their business and their image of products and services for their customers.

With a Filipino Personal License, Magnolia Fresh Chicken (Carinderia Fiesta II) also seeks to diffuse the unique attitudes that make a carinderia a carinderia that appeals to the heart, mind and stomach of the Filipino.

It is the carinderias' time to take the spotlight once again and Magnolia Fresh Chicken is more than willing to provide them with the stage through Carinderia Fiesta II.

Alagang Magnolia, Alagang Totoo

MAGNOLIA Magnolia is not just a convenient and healthy option for San Miguel Pure Foods, Inc., consumers and producers of a line of high-quality food products including the market leading Magnolia Fresh Chicken.

The San Miguel Family, Inc. is a way of corporate life and an overarching commitment to providing customers with only the best fresh chicken that they need for their favorite chicken meals.

And that commitment to caring extends all the way from choosing the right breed of chicken to raise, to the way the chickens are grown, how they are harvested, transported, dressed and processed and then finally distributed in the nearest supermarkets, grocery stores, or wet markets.

No other company in the Philippines has been so successful in providing customers with the most premium quality chicken.

Such control over all levels of production, from farm to the plate, just Magnolia Fresh Chicken is not above the rest in the market, making it the leader in a market where the chicken is so precious about their chickens.

It is not easy to keep such high production standards for San Miguel Pure Foods, Inc. President Tina Iwaida E. Pineda says that the company does not even think about raising prices because the customers expect only the best quality from their Magnolia Fresh Chicken.

It is this quality that the millions of carinderias all over the country are proud of getting from San Miguel Pure Foods, Inc. product to their customers. Given that carinderias now have a lot of chicken on their menu, it is indeed good news that they have a company that is looking out for them.

"We are aware that Magnolia Fresh Chicken is a little bit more expensive compared to others in the wet market, but we insist on it to sell well because the carinderias owners know that they are getting so much more from our product in terms of quality and hygiene. Each pack of chicken is guaranteed fresh and clean," says Pineda.

According to Dr. A. Oliver, Vice President and General Manager of the Poultry and Meats Division of San Miguel Pure Foods, Inc., the company continues to find ways to raise standards even further to respond to the changing needs of its customers, including the carinderias.

Oliver says that carinderias, for example, want more uniform cuts of chicken to help them lay out their menu and improve their food preparation.

At the same time, the push to shrink the company's carbon footprint has led to additional refinements in the production process to ensure the chicken used was raised as much as possible in order to grow and then sold to wet markets, and therefore less impact on the environment.

All of these benefits are available to the carinderias, which the company believes are growing in importance because most Filipinos are finding it more convenient to eat in.

"Love of families are moving from eating in carinderias every day, especially for those who live in condominiums and do not want their starts to smell like food," says Polibyah, "and because food is, carinderias are delicious and affordable, they have become a viable alternative to eating at home."

Of course, if you're a busy parent, there are so many dining establishments in the malls, there will always be more for the carinderias. Because of their affordability and their being associated with home-cooked meals.

Chicken will always be a staple for these carinderias because it is tender and easy to prepare over a short period of time. It is also very versatile, they can be cooked in so many ways, from simple to exotic, and as toppings for noodles and rice meals.

Oliver says that Magnolia Fresh Chicken also now comes in three to five-day packs to suit the needs of the carinderias, who are short on the budget for ways to make their operations less costly and more efficient.

Polibyah says that San Miguel Foods, Inc. takes great pride in creating these efforts to meet the needs of customers, especially the carinderias who have not always received the respect that they deserve.

"We really want to pay special attention to them because they are a major channel and they provide a great service to Philippines. That is why they are actually growing in number, making them an even more important segment of the market," says Polibyah.

San Miguel Foods, Inc. is also standing its Alagang Magnolia commitment to the carinderias, not just by providing them with the best chicken that money can buy but also other perks and rewards for being such loyal customers over the years.

"The idea of us being an eye of seeing to the level of the carinderias. We care for our chicken and we also care for our customers," says Polibyah. "That's the Alagang Magnolia way."

What makes a carinderia a carinderia?

Visitors to the Philippines all say that the Filipino brand of hospitality is one of the most precious treasures of the country that will make them want to come back and even ask their friends and family to go with them.

Perhaps one of the best expressions of this unique Filipino hospitality is the carinderia, the neighborhood eatery that is the best place to go to for a very low and affordable meal that comes close to the care and quality of the food that one eats at home.

You can rely on the carinderia to provide the good-old Filipino fare that can immediately turn a bad day into something worth looking forward to.

And is the carinderia that an always leading way among customers go a kind of service that they won't get from the more expensive dining options.

Where else, for example, can you eat and talk the family reunion or meeting in your main room on your 100th birthday half a serving of the day's pick, chicken or beef dish because that is what you need at the moment? Or ask for someone helping if you need?

And it is a sure hospitality when the carinderia owner allows you to pay for your meal the next day or even at the end of the week when the salary comes in? Or even accommodate your specific requests for their special occasions? The neighborhood carinderia can do all of these and also provide customers with a homey place they can hang out in, a place where they can meet their friends, family, and friends, as if the carinderia were a home, a place where the customers feel like they are at home.

And is the carinderia, where customers can feel at home, there is no eating alone but always in a group. It is in these welcoming places, everybody just sits together to enjoy a good meal. Indeed, you are not a Filipino if you have not eaten in a carinderia. The carinderia is able to do all these while going through the daily challenges of preparing and serving different kinds of delicious and hearty meals that most everybody can afford and enjoy. Now that's hospitality.
